

HOW IT WORKS

You must own a share of the spring to receive water from it.

To receive any water from the spring you must currently own at least one share and have filled out and signed the appropriate share agreement. The cost of the share is refundable in full should you decide you no longer wish to receive water from the spring. Under the subscription agreements at the current rates, if you use all of your water each month, it will cost you 73 cents a gallon for the pure artesian spring water.

You must own your own 3-gallon polycarbonate bottles.

HappyHill Springworks will deliver (in 3-gallon polycarbonate bottles only) to a specified drop off/pick up location agreed upon in the share agreement. Your name and an identifying number linking you to a share will be on each bottle. You may purchase your bottles from HappyHill Springworks (if in stock) or from another vendor. One share requires a minimum of two bottles, two shares requires a minimum of four bottles, etc.

The artesian spring water is delivered locally on a weekly basis.

HappyHill Springworks will deliver to any drop-off/pickup location if a minimum of 10 people in a city are picking up at that central spot. A delivery fee is added for each bottle, but the cost of the water will still be well below retail rates. You must drop off your empty bottle(s) in order to receive water the following week. If you have water left at the end of the week, pour it on your plants and bring the empty for a refill in order to maintain an uninterrupted supply of fresh artesian spring water.

ORMUS Water

We also offer ORMUS water — water that has been concentrated through a series of magnetic vortex traps. This water is a bit more costly due to its concentrated nature. Learn more at
